

U.S. Lose Three Warships In Battle of Java; Power In Air Swings to Allies

About 700 Officers, Men Are Lost When U.S.S. Aircraft Tender Sinks Under Bombs
25 Ships Lost

U. S. Naval Losses Total 25 for War; Launchings Overcome This

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The navy has announced that virtually unopposed Japanese bombers sank the aircraft tender Langley and two other warships in the battle of Java, but the southwest Pacific air tide was believed today to be turning, and navy shipbuilding is far ahead of losses.

About 700 officers and men were lost when the Langley was sunk off Java February 27 and the naval tanker Pecos was sent to the bottom nearby on March 1. The Pecos had been carrying the Langley survivors, and only about one-third of the crews of the two ships were saved, the navy announced last night.

The old fashioned, flush deck destroyer Peary was bombed and sunk about February 19 at Darwin, Australia, going down with her guns firing. The loss of life was believed light.

Meanwhile, fuller details of an earlier engagement came to light. It was disclosed that destroyer division 59 of the U. S. Asiatic fleet steamed back and forth through a Japanese convoy in a Macassar Strait night attack late in January, sent a number of enemy ships to the bottom with torpedoes and point-blank gunfire, and escaped with only minor damage to one ship.

Naval observers pointed out that when the battle of Java was fought U. S. vessels were handicapped by lack of air support. Now, however, the growing strength of American land-based units in northern Australia may reverse the picture. Both fighters and bombers of General MacArthur's forces sweep regularly over waters north of Australia where the Japanese effort in the southwest Pacific has been concentrated.

Total Losses 25
The new sinkings brought to 25 the number of U. S. naval losses in the war. Thus far 10 destroyers, one battleship, three submarines, one cruiser, one aircraft tender, two coast guard vessels, two tankers, one target ship, one cargo ship, one gunboat, and two miscellaneous type vessels have been officially listed as sunk.

But the launching of 16 destroyers, a battleship, two cruisers, two aircraft tenders and a number of other naval craft since Pearl Harbor dwarfs these losses. And tragic as they are, the losses became insignificant when compared with the official published list of naval vessels under construction as of June 30 last year—topped by 17 battleships, 12 aircraft carriers and 35 cruisers.

The Japanese, on the other hand, have lost at least 30 warships including a battleship, six cruisers and two airplane carriers. Their rate of new building is believed to be only a fraction of that of the United States.

From official and eye-witness accounts of the new sinkings came tales of individual heroism which matched anything in naval history.

When one gun crew was knocked out by the blast of a bomb, another took over immediately. An officer stayed on a sinking ship to fight off a Japanese bomber's strafing attack on helpless men in the water. An enlisted man "gunnery control talker" refused to leave the bridge when he

Danger to Syria Lessens as Moon Wanes for Month

By Next Moon It Will Be Too Late for Hitler to Throw Soldiers Against Nation

Beirut, Syria, April 4 (AP)—Fear of a direct German attack on Syria this month has diminished as a waning moon provided this country with greater nighttime protection.

A full moon this week was so bright one could easily read a newspaper in the streets and the city and its harbors, although blacked out, were sharply silhouetted against the background of mountains which rise just behind.

By the next moon, it is felt it will be too late for Hitler to throw a force against the operation cleaned up by the time he opens his expected drive against Russia.

One of the difficulties of a direct attack on Syria is that the Dodecanese Islands, the nearest hopping off place, is too distant to permit the Germans the fighter protection in the air they had in Crete.

To achieve this, they must first take some half-way place such as Cyprus.

Meanwhile, defense preparations are continuing. The New Zealand force, including veterans of Greece, Crete and last winter's campaign in the western desert, has joined Australian, Free French and British units. Work on fortifications is being pushed and more manpower and materials are scheduled to arrive.

The country, while nervous over the possibility of attack, is internally peaceful and enjoying the greatest boom in its history. Labor is scarce and thousands are working for British forces, receiving wages undreamed of in normal times.

The cost of living has quadrupled in the past year, partly because of real shortages, but largely because of unchecked speculation and profiteering. Many Syrian and Lebanese business men have rolled up large fortunes in eight months of Allied occupation.

Some of the population have, however, suffered. These are mainly salaried employees whose wages have not kept up with unprecedented price rises and residents of those parts of the country here no big military projects are being carried out.

Scully Fined $50 As Hit-Run Driver In Local Accident

Stickles Avenue Man, One Companion Found at Former's House; Third in Car

There was a sudden crash shortly after midnight this morning as a speeding automobile ran into a parked truck in front of 32 Hurley avenue. Two of the men in the speeding car leaped from the machine, following the crash, and ran away, but the third man was too intoxicated to be able to get out of the car, the police asserted.

Officers Joseph Fallon and John J. Harnen in one of the police radio cars answered an alarm sent over the air, and when they reached Hurley avenue it was to find both car and truck damaged, with John Roosa, 58, of Salt Point, still seated in the damaged automobile.

Checking on the license number of the automobile the two officers ascertained that James W. Scully, 29, of 44 Stickles avenue, was the owner of the car. They also found Scully's hat and coat still in the automobile.

Driving to Scully's home on Stickles avenue they found him in bed, and placed him under arrest on a charge of being a hit and run driver. John Cole, 29, of the town of Ulster, who was also at the Scully home, was arrested on a charge of public intoxication.

A charge of public intoxication was lodged against Roosa, whom the officers found in the automobile following the crash.

All three men were later taken to the county jail where they were held until arraigned later in the morning before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court.

Scully, who was arraigned first on a charge of being a hit and run driver, pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Cahill fined Scully $50 and revoked his operator's license. Roosa and Cole also pleaded guilty to public intoxication, and were fined $10 each.

Nazis Stage Slow Recoil In Russia

German High Command Says Activity Is Increased on Northern Front

Guerrillas Active
Free-Lance Fighters Take Total of 800 Lines

(By The Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies, slowly recoiling after a winter of bloody setbacks, were reported making "very hard" counter-attacks on the Russian front today in evident preparation for the heralded Nazi spring offensive.

The German high command said activity had increased on the northern front, where a heavy battle was reported raging around long-besieged Leningrad, and acknowledged Soviet attacks on the Moscow and Ukraine fronts.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters, summarizing the first three months of 1942, declared the Russians had suffered "very heavy losses" in men and material "in an unsuccessful attempt to shatter the German eastern front and during German offensive operations."

Aside from unspecified high losses in Red army troops killed, the Nazi command claimed the Russians had lost 104,128 prisoners, 2,167 tanks, 2,519 guns and 2,720 planes from January 1 to March 31.

A Berlin broadcast said two German infantry divisions alone had killed more than 16,700 Russians, captured 2,250 and destroyed or captured 60 tanks in combatting 472 Soviet attacks in the last few weeks.

Russian authorities credited guerrillas with the slaughter of 800 Germans and aggressive action against supply lines on the central front today and several more settlements were reported captured by the Red army.

Irregulars operating in occupied territory of the Smolensk and Bryansk sectors, in addition to killing 800 Nazis, were said to have captured 22 Germans, destroyed 36 bridges, 300 munitions carts and three tanks and put some locomotives out of commission.

A regular army detachment slew more than 450 Germans in a day on the northwestern front, the Soviet information bureau said.

There was a lull in European aerial activity overnight. A German aircraft dropped bombs in southeast England, causing only slight damage, the British announced.

The Vichy radio said Nazi dive-bombers set a 2,000-ton vessel afire yesterday in a raid on Kola Bay, on which the Russian Arctic port of Murmansk is situated.

Four Workers Are Hurt
Four workers at Shaft 1, Lackawack, of the New York city water project, injured about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, were brought to the Benedictine Hospital by the Huron ambulance from Korhonson and the Pulling ambulance from Ellenville. At the hospital this morning the men, none of whom were seriously injured it was stated, were listed as Lloyd Quick, 28, Accord; Lawrence Schlemmer, 23, 62 Canal street, Ellenville; Seymour Yeager, 23, Ellenville; "Speedy" Ferguson, 44, colored, 17 Chapel street, Ellenville. Details as to the nature of the accident were not available.

Navy Has Answer to Jujitsu; It's No Sporting Proposition, It's War

Annapolis, Md., April 4 (AP)—The navy has an answer to jujitsu and it's anything but a sporting proposition.

It's a modified mixture of murder and mayhem, concocted of the bloodiest aspects of barroom and alley fighting, barred wrestling holds and foul boxing blows. Naval officers say their new training for "rough and tumble" fighting meets Secretary Frank Knox's request for a navy that can fight dirty if it has to.

Commander L. S. Perry, director of the U. S. Naval Academy's physical training program, concedes that much of the navy's new technique stems from an intensive study of Japan's jujitsu tactics. Just the same, he hastens to add, any Nipponese attempting jujitsu tactics on an academy trained officer may find himself committing a new form of hankari.

The navy has termed its system "rough and tumble." Every officer is expected to become adept, and 3,200 reserve and regular mid-

Nation Observes Rites for Army

Three-Day Celebrations to Be for Forces at War; Cadets Parade

Washington, April 4 (AP)—A nation at war today started a three-day observance of Army Day.

Secretary of War Stimson, emphasizing the "particular significance" of the celebration this year, said it was "appropriate that the nation should pay tribute to the soldiers now engaged in the great struggle on many battle fronts."

"Within our own continental limits other patriotic Americans are taking part, as soldiers and as civilians, in the greatest national effort of our time. The observance of Army Day will mark the respect and affection which we feel for our armed forces," he said, "and the pride which we all share in the army of the United States."

In his message in advance of the April 6 observance, which is the 25th anniversary of the United States' entry in the last World War, General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, asked for "complete confidence in the efficiency of the United States army." Undersecretary Patterson said the celebration "fittingly commemorates the inspiring tradition of our armed forces."

New York, with a parade of the West Point cadets, and many other cities held their celebrations today to avoid interference with war production. Regular army troops will participate in observance tomorrow at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and at Baltimore Monday.

War Department's Act Ignoring Congress Is Source of Peeve, Harter Says

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Failure of the war department to follow congressional procedure in seeking funds for a West Point air training program has stirred up a controversy in the important House affairs committee.

Aroused because they were not consulted about the program, some of the committee, led by a ranking Democratic member, Representative Harter of Ohio, sought to eliminate $16,400,000 from the big defense deficiency appropriation bill.

The war department sought the money for development of air training facilities at Stewart Field, N. Y., near West Point, home of the United States Military Academy.

Anxious to get the program under way, the war department took its request direct to the appropriations committee. Usual congressional procedure specifies advance authorization by the military affairs committee.

"Why have legislative or policy making committees if they are to be ignored by the war department and the appropriations committee?" demanded Harter in offering an amendment to eliminate the Stewart Field fund from the bill.

He protested the military affairs committee was "completely bypassed in the consideration of this legislation" and argued the committee should have been given opportunity to "determine the policy and the advisability of making this change, a most radical one, from the present curriculum of the academy."

Harter's amendment was defeated 56 to 39, but his protest was echoed by other members of the committee, including Representative Thomas, Texas Democrat.

Representatives Snyder (D., Pa.) and Powers (R., N. J.) of the appropriations committee said the money was urgently requested by both General George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, and General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air corps.

Optimism of Present May Get Harsh Blow in Hitler's Offensive in Middle East

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

There appears to be a very considerable degree of optimism running through the allied countries, due largely to two things—the amazing successes of the Russians, and the appointment of the world's latest hero, General MacArthur, to supreme command in the western Pacific.

It is right that we should take encouragement from these events. Indeed, a certain amount of prideful optimism is a good thing, for it breeds confidence. At the same time many observers have the uneasy feeling that our wings of hope have carried us too high, and that if we encounter harsh adversity we are going to get a nasty fall.

The recording of propitious signs in this column is a pleasant duty, but a war analyst would fail in his trust if he shirked the uncomfortable task of giving the other side of the picture. Therefore, lest we become over-confident, or too much given to wishful thinking, we shall be wise to check up to see just how matters stand.

First off, while it is true that the Russians have given Hitler a terrific lacing this past winter, and undoubtedly have hurt him badly, it is equally true that he seems a long way from being knocked out. He is still powerful—still the master of one of the most perfect fighting machines ever created.

To Strike Mighty Blows
Because of that, and because the holocaust of the next six months or so in eastern Europe and the Middle East is likely to determine the course of the whole war, the Nazi chief is going to strike some mighty blows. It will be strange if some of these blows don't hurt the allies badly. When a man is desperate he is the most dangerous, and der fuhrer is desperate.

The Russo-German conflict isn't the only place where the allies can get hurt. For instance, we are winning the battle of production but at the moment are having a hard struggle in the battle of transportation, because of the U-boat depredations. War material which ought to be in Russia or other theatres is delayed because of lack of ships. And we appear to be on the verge of a great Nazi submarine offensive which may make anything thusfar seem like kindergarten stuff.

While we are looking at the dark side, let's take a good look. It's possible Hitler may lash out at Sweden, and if he does he may be expected to take that country over. Militarily he is set for this adventure, the purpose of which would be (1) to put him up against his Finnish ally and thus improve his strategic position, and (2) to obtain the food and other supplies in Sweden.

Another possibility—and I am

Port Blair Raided

U. S. Bombers Also Hit at Jap Shipping in Andaman Isles

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Giant U. S. Army flying fortress bombers, striking for the first time from bases in India, were credited officially today with leaving a Japanese cruiser and a transport in flames and probably damaging two other ships in the Bay of Bengal.

Other cheering news for the Allies came in a war department bulletin reporting that American anti-aircraft gunners at Corregidor Island fortress, in the Philippines, blasted two more Japanese heavy bombers out of the skies—increasing their bag to 17 destroyed in less than two weeks.

Two other enemy raiders were probably damaged, the war department said, adding that the Japanese were using a new type of bomb which burst in the air with huge flames.

On Bataan Peninsula, Japanese artillery laid down a heavy fire for three hours, indicating that the enemy was getting ready to attack, but the expected assault failed to materialize.

At the same time, Washington quarters painted a brighter picture for the Allies in the nearly four-month-old war with Japan, declaring that the tide of aerial supremacy in the southwest Pacific is believed to be turning and that navy shipbuilding is now far ahead of losses.

Since Pearl Harbor, the navy has launched 16 destroyers, a battleship, two cruisers, two aircraft tenders and a number of other craft. In addition, the official published list shows 17 battleships, 12 aircraft carriers and 35 cruisers under construction as of June 30, 1941.

A New Delhi communique, the first issued by U. S. Air Force headquarters in India, said Maj. Lewis H. Brereton, the commander, personally led the flying fortress attack on Japanese warships in the Bay of Bengal.

The communique said a squadron of the huge American bombers, defying intense anti-aircraft fire, blasted the enemy's shipping at Port Blair in the Japanese-occupied Andaman Islands. Port Blair is 600 miles from Calcutta and 800 miles from Ceylon, the nearest likely bases for the attack.

"All our aircraft returned safely," the communique said. Japanese fliers bombed storied Mandalay, which was first attacked February 19, and two other towns in Central Burma behind the British-Chinese lines, the British announced. A communique said a hospital was set afire, but declared there was no military damage at Mandalay and that aerial toll elsewhere was inconsequential.

Withdrawal of British covering forces on the Irrawaddy valley front to main defense positions north of Prome was said to have proceeded satisfactorily yesterday despite heavy plane and infantry attacks.

Burma is regarded as the "real danger spot" now by Lieut. Gov. Hubertus J. Van Mook of the Netherlands East Indies.

Speaking in Melbourne, the refugee executive expressed belief the

Day to Be Quiet

Capital Makes No Attempt to Get Tourists as in Other Years

Washington, April 4 (AP)—A quiet Easter is indicated for wartime Washington.

There has been no bid for the tourist traffic of former years. The capital is jammed to capacity with government workers, thousands of whom are spending their first Easter on the Potomac.

The J—e cherry trees along the tidal basin won't be in full, pink blossom for several days. Raw new buildings and excavations for more flank Constitution Avenue, a favorite promenade.

The White House has cancelled the traditional Easter Monday egg rolling for children.

No announcement has been made of the President's plans, but Vice President and Mrs. Wallace will attend an Easter sunrise service at Arlington National Cemetery.

The weather? A military secret!

First Reformed Church Group to Give Pageant

The First Reformed Church has established a tradition for colorful and sincerely devotional pageantry, and the Easter pageant to be presented at the church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock will be no exception.

It is a brand new offering called "The Shadow of the Cross," by Aileen Sargent, and tells the dramatic story of how Ethan, the keeper of the temple flocks, and a scold of the teachings of the Nazarene, is converted by a series of events leading up to the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus. Some interesting staging and lighting effects are being prepared by a committee composed of Henry Page, Charles Goble, Sr., Jason Stockbridge and Ray White. Costumes are in charge of Mrs. Arthur Oudemool, Mrs. Harold L. Herdman, Mrs. Charles Goble, and Mrs. H. C. Greenland. Incidental music will be given by the senior choir of the church, with W. Whitey Fredenburgh at the organ console.

The complete cast is as follows: Ethan, keeper of the temple flocks, Clifford Miller; Naomi, his sister, Marianne Davis; Benoni, father of Ethan and Naomi, Robert Merritt; Philip, Naomi's son, Torm Larsen; Joel, friend of Benoni, Robert Soper; Spirit of Truth, Caroline McCreery; Syro-Phician woman, Mrs. H. P. Van Wageningen; her daughter, Johanna Martini; an angel, Elaine Rich; two women at the sepulchre, Eva Mae Gildersleeve, Marilyn Foster; people of Jerusalem, Caroline Little, Edna Davis, Eleanor Thomas, Audrey Britcliffe, Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw, Jean Laidlaw, Gloria Molyneux, Elaine Rich, Beth Sherman, Irene Kolts, Jason Stockbridge, Edwin L. Lacey, John Muddiman, Russell Edwards.

The production is under the direction of the Rev. Herbert C. Greenland, associate pastor of the church.

Baptist Church Choir Will Present Cantata

AGE OF THRIFT

Hitler has done this for us, anyway—we're turning thrifty. Many of us office workers have taken to saving paper clips, and soon we may find ourselves picking up pins. Women are said to be already salvaging and hoarding safety pins.

And now comes an economy that we never expected to see in this plutocratic land, at least. It is official, too, with the power of the United States government behind it. We can't get another tube of tooth paste or shaving cream without turning in the old tube or its equivalent in tin content.

We may joke about it—humor is free in this country—but it's a serious matter for the munition makers. At a time when tin is needed more than ever before, for military use, important sources of this precious metal are closed to us. It also will be a serious matter for store people who disregard the order: they may be sent to jail and fined as much as $10,000. So play fair and don't ask for special favors at the drug store or department store.

And while we're assimilating such shocks as this, let's remember that we haven't seen anything yet. We may escape serious privation, but we have a lot of education coming to us in the realm of personal and family economy.

WAR AND SCHOLARSHIP

Another war casualty is the catalogue of the French National Library. This was a list, coming out at the rate of two or three volumes a year, now in its 80th volume, of the books owned by the largest library in the world. As a guide to old and rare books it had hardly an equal. Students of books all over the world have used it, and will be sorry for the decision to discontinue it.

The argument is that it conflicts with moral needs in war time. Apart from the fact that France is theoretically not at war, so that this does not really apply, the French might remember that they have not always put intellectual undertakings below the military.

Napoleon was a general who overlooked nothing vital to his art, and a busy statesman, too, governing not only his own country, but most of Europe as well. Yet he found time to see to the publication of the largest Chinese dictionary ever made in a Western country, and of a series of studies on the description, natural history and ruins of Egypt which extends to 20 huge volumes. The tradition is that he not merely authorized their publication, but took an active interest in them.

Napoleon's seems a better example for the French to follow than that of the German-dominated heads of the National Library.

ILLITERACY

Education and intelligence are not necessarily the same thing. When we are told that a person is illiterate, that does not prove him stupid.

Take India, for example. Out of its 400 million people, nearly eleven-twelfths are illiterate. They have never had a chance to be otherwise. Many of them are none the less clever. A recent traveller in India tells of seeing an illiterate native friend, sitting on a doorstep, apparently without a thing in the world to do. Accused of doing nothing, he said, "I am figuring out my profits to the thirty-second part of a penny." His brain was adequate for this complicated calculation. And elaborate and beautiful works of art, such as rugs, have been done all over Asia by craftsmen who could not read and write.

As this traveller reminds us, many of the great sages of Asia have been illiterate. Mohammed, the founder of a great religion, could neither read nor write, yet he changed the history of the world.

"ME FIRST"

It is said to learn that civilian sportsmanship in this country is less prevalent than we thought. Hoarding has not stopped. Often when abandoned in one place it merely breaks out somewhere else.

"Hoarding of goods is rapidly creating a very dangerous situation," says Harold W. Brightman, chairman of the National Consumer-Retailer Council. It is hard to maintain orderly buying and selling, with a fair chance for everybody, as long as so many people try to beat their friends and neighbors by buying out the market. Mr. Brightman urges everybody to help "keep the economic boat from rocking at a time when rocking is sure to impede the war effort."

There is enough for all if everyone will be content with his share.

NEW ROADS WANTED

New York state is planning a 300-mile rival to Pennsylvania's famous turnpike, to be built, of course, after the war. It will be a divided highway on a 200-foot right of way, from New York City up the Hudson and then west, following in a general way the route of the New York Central Railroad. It is hoped to connect it with similar projects further west.

Our roads are going to be better and better. Roads like the Pennsylvania turnpike and this new one would, in certain states, be invaluable in war-time. Germany owes much of her speed in troop movements to her abundance of wide, well-planned roads. We have many excellent highways, but not nearly enough on the scale of that planned in New York.

Horseback riding is another old-time art that is having a new burst of popularity. Certainly there is no healthier form of exercise. But having heard novices at riding compare their experiences, we have often wondered if, at the end of the day's work, the horses in the stable don't get together and remark, "Did you see the terrible rider I had today?"

"Sabotalk" is what Navy posters call loose talk, some innocent, some not, that betrays war secrets.

The Dutch have a good slogan: "We'll do the best we can with what we have."

We still have a feeling that maybe tires could be made out of used chewing gum.

Life is still full of compensations; as the rubber bands give out, there's cotton string.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

WHY PROTEINS?

Nutrition experts, by measuring the amounts of the different kinds of food eaten—proteins, starches and fats—are able to tell how much heat these foods will manufacture or create in the body. The amount of heat created should equal the amount of food eaten.

However, it is found that this amount of heat is actually more than can be accounted for by the amount of food consumed, that is, if, as should be the case, all the food is completely burned.

Why is more heat created than the amount of food eaten can create?

This extra heat is almost entirely due to the protein in the food and hardly at all to the fat or starch. This means that the protein—meat and fish—has a special action—special dynamic action—not possessed by the starch and fat foods.

Now, as this extra heat does not come from the food it must come from somewhere and that somewhere is the tissues of the body. In other words the burning of the protein foods causes a burning of the body tissues thus creating more heat. And the cells or tissues burned are those made up of fat and starch.

It is for this reason that all reducing diets do not cut down on the protein, in fact, some diets allow an increased amount of protein. The protein not only burns up the excess fat, but causes the individual to feel more like exercising or working, thus burning up more fat tissue.

In his book "Science and Nutrition," A. L. Bacharach, Professor of Biochemistry in the University of London, says:

"This stimulating effect of food protein on the burning up of body tissues has an important result. It shows clearly that a high protein diet should be effective in enabling the body to burn up its existing stores of fats and starches (carbohydrates). A diet of lean meat and lean fish must therefore be a 'slimming diet' while hardly at all depriving the body of necessary food materials." As a matter of fact protein foods, if needed, can be converted into carbohydrates and then into fat. But in being converted into starch and fat, it causes the burning up of more fat or starch or protein than it can itself replace.

It can thus be seen why proteins—lean meat and fish—are used in reducing diets.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

It is interesting to recall that in 1899 when the late William D. Brinnin was mayor of Kingston there were only nine wards in the city, but each ward had two aldermen, making the total membership of the council 18 aldermen. It was not until some years later that the present 13 wards with an alderman from each ward was established.

The 18 aldermen who were serving in 1899 were:

First Ward, James S. Winne and Charles A. Schermerhorn.

Second Ward, C. Beekman Jansen and Albert H. Cook.

Third Ward, John R. Tammany and William A. Bilyou.

Fourth Ward, John F. Irwin and William F. Rafferty.

Fifth Ward, Henry Beck and Richard Lenehan.

Sixth Ward, Milton G. Holmes and Archibald Winter.

Seventh Ward, Urban Hamburger and John S. Thompson.

Eighth Ward, Joseph J. Scully and J. Charles Snyder.

Ninth Ward, Ferris W. Eighmey and Benjamin J. Hornbeck.

Alderman Urban Hamburger was serving as president of the council. In those years the presiding officer was chosen by the aldermen from one of their number, but today he is elected under the title of alderman-at-large.

It is also interesting to recall the A. E. Dedrick was serving as assessor; Chris A. Murray as recorder; Frederick Stephan, Jr., as city clerk; Morris Block as city treasurer; John W. Searing as corporation counsel; Willigott Klingberg as chief engineer; Stephen D. Hood as chief of police; John N. Bruck as city marshal and George P. Zech as tax collector.

Many of the men mentioned have since died, but older readers will have no difficulty in recalling them and their activities in civic affairs.

Morris Block, who was serving as city treasurer under Mayor Brinnin in 1924 was serving as the city's mayor, and I recall that on November 25, 1924, he was presiding at a meeting of the Board of Public Works when City Engineer John F. Hallinan filed with the board a tentative plan for the construction of a traffic tunnel under the West Shore railroad tracks at Sterling street.

As I recall it the cost of constructing such a tunnel was fixed at $63,293. Its construction was intended to relieve traffic congestion on the Broadway crossing.

The building of the tunnel, however, never materialized.

White House Exhibited Hostility to Dies Committee and Offers Public Censure

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 4.—It is rare in the history of the United States that the executive branch of the government should openly endeavor to dictate to either the House of Representatives or the Senate how it shall exercise its privilege of investigation by committee. Many times the executive pressure to squelch a committee and keep it from making a projected investigation is carried on behind the scenes, but seldom do the executive offices publicly assail a congressional committee. Even the House respects the committee privileges of the Senate and vice versa, and the courtesies are carried to such an extent that not often is there an attack by a committee of one House on a committee of the other.

The White House has more than once indicated its hostility to the Dies committee but it has not until this week endeavored publicly to discredit that unit of the House of Representatives.

The attack is not confined to the New Deal chieftains hereabout but has been taken up by various left wing organizations.

The Dies committee has had to ask the House of Representatives at least three times for continued authorization and on each occasion the administration has used its influence to try to prevent the House from voting for the continuance. But the Dies committee has triumphed and the last vote was an overwhelming one.

What is the reason for the administration's opposition and what is the reason why the Dies committee wins such overwhelming votes of approval? The reasons for opposition are as diverse as the reasons for support.

Naturally, the administration and its New Deal supporters dislike the Dies committee because it has uncovered an affinity between some New Dealers or radical organizations and the Communist approach to governmental philosophy. But this kind of thing happens, on the other hand, to be pleasing to certain groups in America which have been basically anti-Communist and remain so irrespective of Russia's entrance into the United Nations family. Thus back-home pressure to support the Dies committee has come at times from various patriotic and religious organizations opposed to Communism, from certain labor groups which have consistently opposed Communism, and from the American Legion, which consists of veterans of the first World War.

This is a formidable array of supporters, and to this must be added the Republican groups which go along more or less with every house vote that might produce embarrassments for the New Dealers.

On the other side are militant pro-New Deal organizations like the National Lawyers Guild, which has in its membership many attorneys who work for the federal or state administrations. Not long ago Ferdinand Pecora, a New Dealer, now a judge in New York city and prominent in the Lawyers' Guild, complained about alleged Communist influences in one of the guild's reports. Subsequently the conflicts were adjusted. But there is no doubt that the Dies committee has earned the enmity of most radical organizations and publications because it has singled out individuals and contended that they either had joined Communist organizations or societies that were accused of being tools of Communist groups.

Saugerties Draft Board Lists Order and Serial Numbers

Registrants' Names, Order, Serial Numbers Published

Saugerties Draft Board, No. 314, which has jurisdiction over the towns of Saugerties, Hardenburgh, Kingston, Shandaken, Ulster and Woodstock, has assigned the order and serial numbers for the registrants in this district.

The order number, serial number and name and address, published below, are for registrants between the ages of 20 and 44 inclusive. Men who registered previously are not included in the list, which runs from T-1 to T-1034 inclusive. This is a partial list, the remainder will be published at a later date.

Every effort has been made to assure the correctness of the list as received from the board. However, the local draft board is the final authority on the assignment of numbers:

Some Free Advice
To miss a kiss is more amiss
Than it would be to kiss a miss.
Provided that the kiss you miss
The miss herself would never miss.
But if you try to kiss a miss
With whom a kiss would be amiss.
You'd better always miss the kiss.

Automobile and tire rationing
may bring the horse and mule
back to the roads, but these beasts
will have the slim consolation of knowing that they are second choice.

I'm wise to the ways of the traffic cop.
But not to the ways of Sue.
When her eyes say "Go" and her lips say "Stop,"
What is a guy to do?

The real forgotten men just now
are the motor car and tire salesmen.

A motorist was driving along a country road when he saw a couple of repair men climbing a telephone pole. "Look!" he exclaimed, "they must think I never drove a car before."

Mr. Bernard Shaw is a past master at witty repartee. A young woman sitting next to him at dinner remarked:

Young woman—What a wonderful thing is youth.
Bernard Shaw—Yes, and what a pity to waste it on children.

Here's how one newspaper puts
it, 1940, no running boards; 1941,
no gear shifts; 1942, no cars.

Professor—A scientist has discovered that singing warms the blood.
Student—He's right. I've heard singing that makes my blood boil.

Proper Use Of Tires

Check tires regularly for air.
They normally lose about three pounds of air a week, and you lose 32 per cent of your tire mileage if your tires are underinflated only five pounds.

Reduce your speed 25 per cent
and increase your tire mileage 83 per cent. Heat from speeding, and wear from swaying weakens and tears your tires.

Avoid sudden stops and start
slowly.

Keep your tires in line. A tire out of line one-half inch is dragged sideways 87 feet every mile.

Have your brakes perfectly balanced.

Rotate your tires. Change them from wheel to wheel every 5000
miles.

Avoid sharp objects in the road
and have nails removed from the treads at once.

AIDS TO POISE IN PUBLIC SPEAKING

Panicky Over Boner She's Made

"Heavens, what did I SAY?"
To the scary, inexperienced
speaker her own voice is a stranger. Suddenly she hears it saying some ghastly thing she never planned—or going off into an unexpected squeak!

But this won't happen to you
if you practice simple public speaking exercises at home.
Make friends with your voice!
Read aloud a little while each day, directing your tones to the front of your mouth.

For expressiveness, practice
some simple sentence, accenting
a different word each time. "They WANT to go...they want to GO...THEY want to go."

If you've learned the correct
gracious thing to say on different occasions, boners are less likely.
A newly elected member may say "I hope I shall make myself
worthy of the honor..."

If the speech is long? Don't memorize, but bolster yourself with a few notes. Also, be sure of parliamentary rules!

You can conquer stage fright!
Our 32-page booklet tells how.
Gives public speaking exercises

SHOW BOAT GIRL

By ROBERTA
COURTLAND

Chapter 24

New Offer

MELISSA said swiftly, anxiously.
"Oh, Randy, darling—
please don't mind so much. I don't, honestly—I don't mind a bit."

"Well, you should," said Randy savagely, through his clenched teeth. "It was the most deliberate insult any girl could receive—and you should have pride enough to be cut to the quick—humiliated—as I am, for you!"

"But after all, they are people who mean absolutely nothing to me, nor to you," protested Melissa almost frantically, because the lovely day was being torn to bits
before her.

"They are the so-called 'best people,'" snapped Randy sharply.
"And they are right. After all, one must draw the line somewhere,
and a professional gambler's female associates is as good a place to begin as any. Come on, let's get out of here."

The sound of the bugle announced the third race. But neither Randy nor Melissa heard it. She had almost to run to keep up with him as he strode to the parking place where he had left his car. And the gears roared as he meshed them savagely so that the car leaped out of its parking space like a cruelly spurred horse.

During the drive Randy said
nothing beyond the briefest, most cort monosyllables in answer to her desperate attempts at conversation. Her heart lay in the very heels of her smart brown suede slippers and her hands shook a little as she held them tightly
clapsed in her lap.

Just before they reached the
show boat she said shakily,
"Randy, I think you're being pretty much of a fool about all this.
After all, I was the one who was
—well, insulted, if you want to put it that way—"

"There's scarcely any other way
to put it, is there?" demanded
Randy grimly.

"All right, if I'm not all hot and bothered about it, why should you be?" she answered
with spirit.

"Put yourself in my place," suggested Randy grimly. "Suppose I were being brushed off like that
by some of your friends—"

"They were not your friends—
they were just people who thought you'd help them win a lot of money by telling them how to lay their bets," Melissa cut in sharply.

"All right, but suppose you had dragged me into a situation where I got that sort of brush-off—how would you feel about it?" asked Randy grimly.

"As though I'd like to wring
their necks, of course," answered Melissa. "But I wouldn't take it out on you by seeing how hateful
I could be to you."

"I'm not taking it out on you,"
protested Randy. "I'm just facing the fact that your association with me is going to put you on the wrong side of so-called respectable society—"

"I'm not associating with you—I'm marrying you," Melissa told him hotly, knowing that she must fight as she had never fought, if she hoped to shake Randy out of this somehow terrifying mood of
his. "And it just doesn't matter
two pins to me whether the people back there at the racetrack think I'm 'nice folks' or not."

"It matters," she snapped Randy. "And if you don't mind, I wish you'd keep quiet a bit. I've got to think."

Black Mood

MELISSA subsided, but she was frightened, and she shivered a little,
despite the mildness of the afternoon, and drew the lovely fur about her slim shoulders. She didn't know what she feared; she only knew that some dark shadow threatened her happiness. And she didn't know how to fight it.

They reached the River Queen;
and as Randy let her out of the car, he said curtly, "I've just remembered some business I've got to attend to. You run along and rest up for tonight. I'll see you at supper."

And before Melissa could offer
any protest he turned the car
about in a shower of gravel and white dust and sped off down the road, leaving her standing there,
wide-eyed, distressed, shaken to
the depths of her being.

From the River Queen there came a cheerful hail and she turned to see Alice there, waving to her, greeting her gaily.

"Hey, you," called Alice lightly.
"Why not come on board and give a guy a chance to look at all your new finery? Where'd you get the kitty-cat?"

Melissa stumbled down the pier,
and as she reached the side of the boat Alice saw her face and cried out in sharp concern. "Why, kiddie, what's happened? You look as though you'd been breaking bread with a ghost—and a rather loathsome one—"

Melissa burst into tears against Alice's shoulder, and Alice,
alarmed, gave her little comforting pats on the back as though
she had been the age Alice's small son. When the tears had ex-

ended themselves and Melissa had managed to recount to Alice
the events of the day, Alice looked troubled.

"Alice is such a sucker for respectability so far as you're concerned that the big lug leans over backward," admitted Alice frankly. "It burns him up to have anybody behave as though you weren't the equal and then some of the sassy little gals that flip around in the society set Randy's pretty hipped on his own reputation, too. He goes through life believing that people think he's hand-in-glove with Satan himself,
when as a matter of fact people
who know him think he's just about the squarrest little shooter
in these parts."

"But, Alice, what am I going to do? How am I going to convince him that I don't care about people like that woman at the track—and that I love him—and that nothing else matters?" wailed Melissa miserably.

"Well, as to that, kiddie, I wouldn't know," admitted Alice frankly. "I imagine you'll just have to give him time to get over
the blow to his pride."

And then for the first time she saw the emerald, flashing green fire in its frosty setting, and she gasped.

"My saints alive! What a headlight!" she cried, and lifted Melissa's hand for a better look. "I'll say the man's mad about you.
Don't worry, angel-face, he'll get over his peeve. You've got him
roped and hog-tied."

Heavy Heart

MELISSA tried hard to accept the comforting counsel that Alice offered, but her heart was heavy and there was a growing feeling of fear and uneasiness as the evening passed and Randy
had not returned to the River Queen.

She was doing her first group of numbers when she saw him for a moment at the entrance to the auditorium, watching her and listening to her song. Her voice shook a little, throbbing with the intensity of her emotion. For just a moment she looked across the room and into his eyes—and then he was gone.

When she had finished her last encore and was free to leave the stage she slipped out of the doorway that led directly to the deck,
intent on finding Randy and talking to him. But as she hurried toward the game room a waiter
barred her way with a message.
A guest wished to speak to her.
It was very important, Melissa would have brushed past the waiter, ignoring him; but the customer was directly behind him
and she could not escape.

"Miss Marlowe, I'd like a few minutes of your time for a proposition I think might interest you,"
said the man, who was middle-aged, well groomed, very pleasant, quite obviously someone of importance. "Perhaps you'll come to my table. A drink maybe?"

Melissa said quickly, "I don't drink, but of course, if you have something to say—"

The man smiled. "I don't think you'll find it a waste of time to listen," he assured her, and guided her to a small table for two, where he drew a chair out for her. When she was seated, he asked at once, "Miss Marlowe, had you ever thought of going on the air? Radio stuff?"

"No, of course not," answered Melissa, almost rudely curt, for she was possessed of a terrific impatience with this man who was keeping her from seeing Randy.

"Why of course not?" asked the man, smiling faintly. "You have an almost perfect radio voice. I've been listening to you for some time—this is my fourth
or fifth visit to the River Queen especially to hear you—and I'm convinced that you could have a very nice career for yourself on the radio."

"You're very kind," said Melissa. "But I'm afraid I'm not interested."

"But what do you intend to do with yourself? Certainly there's no real future aboard the show boat. After all, the show boat is merely popular at the moment because it happens to be a novelty.
By next season it will be fashion," protested the man, and offered her a card. "I'm Todd Beasley, of the Plantation Lady Products. I'm planning a new radio program to sponsor my products—
a nationwide hook-up—and I want you, a contract for a year, with an option for two more years after that, at a very good salary—"

"Thank you," said Melissa quietly. "But I'm still not interested. You see, Mr. Beasley, I'm going to marry Mr. Hendricks—"

"You mean Mr. Hendricks, owner of the River Queen?" demanded Beasley, obviously startled.

Melissa's head went up a little
and she said evenly:
"Yes, we're going to be married within a week, so you see why I wouldn't be interested in your proposition."

Beasley nodded and for a moment was silent, studying her intently. Then he nodded a trifle grimly and said, "Of course, in that case—"

Beasley rose and bowed as she hurried away.

WALKILL

The annual Easter sunrise
service for Walkill, New Hurley, Shawangunk, Walden and Montgomery Reformed Churches will be held at Borden's Home Farm near the greenhouse at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The invocation will be given by the Rev. John Tysse, scripture reading by the Rev. Ike Meyer, and sermon by the Rev. P. P. Mallory. Music will be furnished by the members of the Numoshawawa Choral Club, directed by Byron L. Clark and accompanied on the trumpet by Miss Marjorie DuBois. The Rev. Lester
Alberts will pronounce the benediction.

The annual congregational covered dinner will be held in the Community Hall Thursday evening, April 9, at 6:30 o'clock. This will be followed by the congregation meeting at 7:45 o'clock in the church, at which time two deacons and elders will be elected and annual reports given.

Frank Mentz talked about his hobby, "Photography" and J. Addison Crowell on "drawing" at the Men's Club on Monday evening.
Dr. R. Will of New Paltz was also a speaker.

Howard Terwilliger, a senior at Brother's College, Drew University is spending his spring vacation this week with his parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Lester Terwilliger.

Mr. and Mrs. George Roberson of Newburgh spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Harriet Titus.
Mrs. George Hammesfahr will be hostess to the members of the Home Bureau at her home, Tuesday afternoon, April 7 at 2 o'clock
for a meeting on menu planning.

For killing a pig without a license to do so, a man was fined

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Optimistic

Indianapolis—Dr. Dick Jordan, erstwhile Indianapolis dentist now Lieutenant Jordan of Fort Thomas (Ky.) Government Hospital, is optimistic over the outcome of the war.

On the door of his office he has left a sign reading:

"I have been called to military service, hoping to return about January, 1943."

Fire Insurance

Fort Richardson, Alaska—Playing with fire cost Private Elrod E. Flinders half his March pay check.

Disregarding regulations, Flinders lighted a gasoline lantern indoors. The flare of the fuel set the quarters on fire.

Lieut. John H. Mulder ordered him to invest half of his pay in defense savings stamps.

Big Job, Little Pay

Marshallfield, Mo.—Mayor Joe Robertson had his fill of political life after eight terms.

"I have had a little trouble making ends meet," said the mayor in declining a ninth term. His salary has been $1 a year.

Retribution

Los Angeles—Thomas K. Case is not quite so put out about the bee swarm which made his home life uneasy for several months.

A bee expert finally located the hive under a floor in Case's house—and a 50 pound cache of honey.

Good Samaritan

Chicago—Duane Bjorklund had a brighter outlook on life today as he thought of summer days ahead when he again might play baseball. Duane, 13, suffered the loss of a leg last June when struck by a hit-run automobile. He had been active in Boy Scout work and in school athletics.

An official of a company making artificial limbs heard of Duane's plight and personally made the artificial limb for him when he learned the boy's family could not purchase one.

Veteran Victim

Chicago—Albert A. Gertzakin has been held up five times in recent months and his liquor store, bandit enters his liquor store. Last night he noted the gunman who held him up was nervous. His gun hand was shaking.

"Take it easy," Gertzakin told the bandit. "You can have the money without any trouble."

"I have been shot at twice tonight," the gunman retorted. "You take it easy. I might forget. Then he fled with $50.

Advice on How to Make Foundation Garments Fit

Miss H. White, well known costumer at Wards this coming week, passes on a few friendly tips on what to look for in buying a foundation garment. "Naturally, a woman wants to improve her figure, but this must be done properly and comfortably. A foundation garment has to be as carefully fitted as your shoes."

Miss White always appraises a silhouette first with the clothes on, to see which parts of the figure must be improved with the aid of a foundation garment. If the woman has any special abdominal problems or needs extra support, these requirements are thoroughly analyzed and prescribed for.

Almost any garment will look and feel all right when the wearer is standing straight, but the real test comes when the body is in action. When buying a foundation garment, be sure to sit down and bend over in several positions, to make sure your garment has enough "give" or is firm. Garter placement, also, is of extreme importance. The garters must allow enough "give and stretch" so the stockings will remain fastened when you're sitting, and will not easily rip when the knee is bent.

"If you follow these two important rules," says Miss White, "you'll always be comfortable in your foundation garment, and satisfied with your purchase."

Bob Curwood, Hollywood veteran, has completed a motion picture, starring Mexican actors, in Mexico City.

Women's Bowling Tourney Will Start Here Next Friday Night

22 Teams Entered At Central Recs; 3 Classes Are Listed

Mayor William F. Edelmuth Will Open Ceremonies at 6:45 P. M.; 31 in Doubles

Cooperstown by Lake Otsego, the famed "Glimmer Glass" of Indian lore, gave Abner Doubleday and baseball to the world. And also a pretty good woman bowler in Eleanor Bursley who leads her tenpin aces against the Colonial City Stars tonight in one half of the Red Cross special benefit doubleheader at the Central Recreation alleys. The match is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

One of New York's leading female bowlers, Mrs. Bursley copped the all-events division of the New York State women's tournament last year with a brilliant 1712 total. It was the third highest nine game total in the history of the tourney.

800-Average Squad
Mrs. Bursley captured her first state title in 1940 when she paired with Hattie Gage of Cooperstown, to take down the doubles with a nifty 1166. A 175 average bowler, Mrs. Bursley heads an 800-average squad that should make a perfect match for the Colonial Stars.

According to figures compiled recently, the Colonial Stars have an 820 average for 33 match games this season. The composite home average of the Kingston female aces is in the neighborhood of 785.

Rita Markle, anchor for the Stars, leads the club with an average of 171 for 33 games. Evelyn Provenzano is runner-up with 169. They have rolled high singles of 235 and 230 respectively while the latter has a 579 triple and Markle a 578.

The Kingston women have rolled 2500 or better five times during the campaign and their 2553 is an all-time local record for female competition. Besides Rita Markle and Evelyn Provenzano the local squad boasts of such favorites as Alice Risleley, Bea Coddington and Charlotte Lapine. Throughout this year Evelyn Dolson, Tillie Housh, Marie Koenig and Marjorie Clubb also have appeared with the club.

Central Stars Roll
The other half of the doubleheader tonight pits the Central Recreation Stars against the famous Chic Grips of New York. Charlie Chicarelli, New Jersey ace, heads the team and will be here with his famous new ball which has the Chic Grip.

Another outstanding bowler with the New Yorkers tonight will be Alex Murzinski, another backer of the Chic Grip ball. He has rolled off 16 consecutive 600s in four different leagues with the new ball.

Other bowlers making up the invading team will be George Gardner, Frank Figurelli and Lou Marsh. All five bowlers are top-notchers in the New Jersey circles. This will be one of the stiffest tests for the Central Rec Stars this year. They have met and defeated some of the other outstanding bowling aggregations but this one appears to be the toughest one yet.

After a lay-off of several weeks, bowling fans will welcome the all-star club back to the Central Rec clubs. According to the present plans, Johnny Ferraro, Charlie Tiano, Harold Broskie and Rudy Keider will make up the squad. A fifth bowler will be selected later. It may be Ken Williams who appeared with the club in one of the last games rolled by the Stars before the intermission.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Harris Names Players

Orlando, Fla.—"This is the ball club I'm depending on to put us in the first division," said Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators as he named his lineup for today's game with the Philadelphia Phils. Bobo Newsom will make his first start as a Washington pitcher, caught by Jake Early. Mickey Vernon will be at first, Frank Croucher at second, Bobby Estellella at third, Bob Reppas at short and Stan Spence, George Case and Bruce Campbell in the outfield.

Cronin Orders X-Ray

Birmingham, Ala.—Ted Williams will spend most of his time during the Boston Red Sox' two-day visit here having his injured foot X-rayed. The slugger, who was nicked by one of Bucky Walters' pitches Thursday, insists the injury is slight, but Manager Joe Cronin warned him that he would play no more until he could produce a negative print.

Giants Snap Streak

Memphis, Tenn.—The New York Giants, back on the winning side in their barnstorming tour with Cleveland after snapping a four-game losing streak yesterday, part company with the Indians today when they take on Memphis of the Southern Association. Dave Koslo and Harry Feldman have been named to pitch for the Giants.

Dodgers Use Jeeps

Fort Benning, Ga.—Manager Leo Durocher and several of his Brooklyn Dodgers got a taste of army life yesterday. They used army jeeps for the six mile trip from Macon, Ga., to their camp with the Camp Wheeler team.

Champs of City Basketball League

Ending one of the most brilliant basketball seasons ever enjoyed by a local quintet, the Elstons, members of the City League, defeated the Spurs last week in two straight playoff games to become champions of the city circuit. Elstons had a sensational winning record of 17 victories and one defeat for the season. In the above photo are the players of the Elstons who helped to capture the trophy for the 1941-42 City League Basketball season. In the front row, left to right, are Jack Kelse, Jack Purvis, Joe Blass, coach; "Whitey" Meyers and Buddy Hughes. In the back row in the same order are "Pop" Hughes, manager; "Bub" Van Buren, Ray Lindhorst, George Bloom and Herbie Williams.

Colonial City Women Stars Bowl Here Tonight in Red Cross Benefit Double-Bill

Female Keglers, Stars Listed for Attractions at Central Alleys at 9 o'clock

The second annual city tournament of the Kingston Women's Bowling Association will start Friday, April 10, at the Central Recreation alleys. It was officially announced this morning. Twenty-two teams have entered the tourney. At 6:45 o'clock next Friday night Mayor William F. Edelmuth will cut the ribbon opening the tournament. Peter Koresman, president of the Kingston Bowling Association, also will be present and will speak as will Mayor Edelmuth.

With 22 teams listed for action, 31 in the doubled and 48 in singles also are entered. Competition will be in three Classes, A, B and C. Class A in the team event is a new division since the high average required there was only one Class A squad last year.

The Colonial Women's League has entered 11 teams in the running. Emerick Ladies' League has sent in six. The "Y" League two and Ellenville three.

The keggers in the three classifications will be fighting for the annual city of Kingston high single trophy awards. In order to be eligible for the trophy, a bowler must compete in the all-events.

Jim Demaret Back On High Road to Success in Golf

Asheville, N. C., April 4 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret, the one time Golden Boy of golf, is heading for the highroad of success again today—still the laughing gale fellow in a gay checked jacket, but a more serious man on the links. Overlooked by the galleries in the first two rounds of the Asheville Open, Demaret, after a wobbly start, laid down a 71 and a 69 and last night when the last of the faithful had deserted the fairways, Jimmy was still polishing a game that is now near a peak of perfection.

The only man playing who has any chance of rivaling slugging Sammy Snead as the Babe Ruth of golf, Demaret has put behind his habit of missing them quick, and now looks good even when he flubs a shot. He is playing every shot for keeps.

He has his heart set especially on a good showing here, for it was in Asheville that he picked up in 1940, the year he startled the golf world by winning six P. G. A. Tournaments, including the Augusta Masters.

He is also polishing his game with one eye turned toward Augusta, for he knows a victory there would mean not that he is on the road back but he has arrived. After his great year in 1940, Demaret says, he went around in 1941 defending his titles.

"All of a sudden, I ran out of titles," Jimmy said, with a rueful grin. "I have been hiding behind my own gallery this winter, and I'm getting tired of it." Today he was only three shots off the pace, and playing beautifully.

Leading the field was Herman Barron, of White Plains, N. Y., at 137. Lawson Little, of Monterey, Calif., was second at 139. Demaret was bracketed with defending champion Ben Hogan and hot Henry Picard at 140 as the field swung into the third 18-hole round.

Revolutionary Method

For Killing Influenza

Recurrence of such a pestilence as the influenza epidemic which raged through army camps in 1917-18 has been, at least theoretically, ruled out by a new method of killing air-borne bacteria with ultraviolet rays.

The method was described to the American Congress of Physical Therapy by Dr. William F. Wells of the University of Pennsylvania's school of medicine.

As the result of a four-year trial in a selected grade school in Philadelphia, the system has proved its worth incontestably, Dr. Wells said. The physician added he is now prepared to offer it to the war department, with the recommendation that it be installed in army cantonments throughout the nation.

"Our research in this field has now gone far enough to enable us to predict that purification of the air by this method will soon be just as thorough and just as normal a procedure as our everyday pasteurization of milk and chlorination of drinking water," declared Dr. Wells.

He recalled the plague of Spanish influenza which swept through the training camps in World war years and knocked off American soldiers like flies, and stressed that "it need never happen again."

MacArthur Asks Divine Guidance In Easter Message

General MacArthur's Headquarters in Australia, April 4—In an Easter message, General Douglas MacArthur today asked divine guidance for his leadership in the forthcoming struggle in the Southwest Pacific.

The allied commander, meanwhile, continued conferences with Australian and American civil and military leaders in his vast organization task. He planned to work through Easter, which will be a particularly sober holiday throughout Australia this year.

MacArthur, an Episcopalian, native of Little Rock, Arkansas, received this message from W. P. Witsell, director of Little Rock's Christ Church:

"The church of your baptism sends Easter greetings and an expression of faith and loving pride in you.

"At the altar where I first joined the sanctuary of God, I ask that you seek divine guidance for me in the great struggle that looms ahead."

A headquarters spokesman disclosed that President Manuel Quezon, soon after arriving in Australia from the Philippines, sent his people a message of inspiration and hope for broadcast through the army's voice of freedom radio station which blankets the Philippines.

Large Contingent To Leave Kingston In Draft April 13

On April 13, Kingston's Selective Service Board will send away one of the largest contingents in its history for induction into the U. S. Army.

Included in the group will be many youths whose fathers fought in the war in 1918.

All of the youths who will make up the April 13 contingent have received their usual 10 days' notice and are busy winding up their civilian affairs. They will be sent to an army induction center where they will be given a physical examination.

Those who pass the physical tests will be accepted and sent to an army training camp.

This Easter season will likely be the last in some time that many of the boys will be able to spend at home with their families and many will attend the various church services.

"On the hill" as many of the residents of upper West Chestnut street call it there are seven homes where notices have been received for the boys of the home to report at the draft board office on April 13.

At the corner grocery the other night some of the boys who had received their notice were talking. Said one, "Some one has to stop them Japs, and we are glad to be given the chance to help."

License Plate Trouble

Earl Hopkins of West Hurley reported to the sheriff's office Friday that he had lost his license plate which he had lost, had run his car into the gas pump of Gordon Hyde on the Plank Road. Hopkins, who has just received a bill from the Sun Oil Co. for damage to the pump, said that he lost his license plate about March 4 and on March 6 got a new plate. The car, which caused the damage bore a license plate of the same number as that lost by Hopkins. Hyde said he thought the car was a Ford convertible.

They'll Remember Trip

Alpine, N. J., April 4 (P)—Three Astoria, N. Y., boys won't soon forget their camping trip in Palisades Interstate Park. They found the decomposed body of a man and spent a sleepless night deciding what to do. The campers, Donald Vane, 14, Jerry Mases, 16, and Alfred Nols, 15, told police yesterday they found the body in a cave, part way up the steep Palisades. Assistant Bergen County Physician Arthur W. Grenfield said the body had a bullet hole in the right temple. A rusty .22 calibre rifle was found nearby.

HIGHLAND

Forum Meets

Highland, April 4—Speaking before the Forum Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Loren LeFevre, the Rev. Raymond O'Brien talked on "A Just Peace," giving his views on the kind of world we are aiming at: Four freedoms—freedom from fear of aggression, freedom from fear of economic security, freedom from fear of persecution at home, freedom at home. As a plan he suggested: Get rid of hatred and desire for revenge, build up an understanding of peoples, acquire knowledge of problems, safeguard democracy at home if we wish to give it to the world, stop acting as if we were the greatest people on earth, cultivate humility before the world and God. At the close of his talk an open discussion was held.

Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Witt, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mott, Mrs. Percy Mott, Father O'Brien, Mrs. Alice Dumont, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Coons, Mrs. Charles Schmidt, Mrs. John J. Gaffney and the hosts. Refreshments were served with Mrs. Dumont and Mrs. Gaffney pouring. The date marked the 57th anniversary of Mrs. Dumont's coming to West Park.

Ladies' Aid Meets

Highland, April 4—Presiding at the April meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society Wednesday afternoon at the Elms the president, Mrs. Franklin Welker, appointed Miss Daisy Fredericks and Mrs. Charles Lockwood as supply committee for the kitchen. Mrs. Roscoe Wood and Mrs. S. D. Farnham, who are working on a new church directory, reported satisfactory progress in the work. It was decided not to hold an annual fair but to have a sale of articles in connection with a turkey dinner in November. Mrs. Nathan Williams will be chairman of a table holding novelty and useful articles at that time. The success of the Raggedy Ann Luncheon was reported to be over $40. Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb reminded those present of the sunrise service Easter morning and Mrs. D. S. Haynes spoke of the May luncheon on May 7 of the hall of St. Augustine's Church which will make the third of its kind for the women of all denominations.

Present at the meeting were: Mrs. Welker, Mrs. Charles Champ, Mrs. A. W. Williams, Mrs. N. D. Williams, Miss Julia Van Keuren, Mrs. W. D. Corwin, Mrs. DeWitt DuBois, Mrs. Oliver J. Tillson, Mrs. C. Mrs. Alexander and her committee are planning to hold a food sale during this month.

Village Notes

Highland, April 4—Owing to the absence of Mrs. W. T. Burke the meeting of the Music Study Club will be held April 14 in place of the 7th as first arranged. The club meets at the home of Mrs. Burke. The Evening Reading Circle will meet Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lent on the Bellevue road with Mrs. Livingston Rhodes assisting. Reading of the book, "Christian Roots of Democracy in America," by Arthur T. Holt, will be continued.

Miss Catherine Richards, a student at Albany State, returns Sunday after spending the spring vacation at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burke and two daughters will spend next week with relatives near Boston.

Walter R. Seaman is converting the building known as Highland Inn on the corner of Vineyard avenue and the Milton road into an apartment house.

Tuesday evening a farewell or testimonial dinner was given for Richard Glassford, who is leaving soon to enter the service. The dinner was held at the Coq d'Or and was attended by members of the Lions Club of which Mr. Glassford has been an active member. Those present were: John Mack, Bruff Olin, Lloyd Reese, Benjamin Brooks, Dr. Carl F. Meekins, Harold Berean, John Brucklacher, Walter R. Seaman, Charles Z. Rogers, Abbott Goldenkoff, McAlpin Brown, Irving R. Rathgeb, LeGrand Haviland, Jr., William Denby, Albert and Webster Langdon, William Coy, Dr. Victor Salvatore. Mr. Glassford came here some two years ago from Schenectady and purchased the Fair store and has built up a strong business. Since no purchase for the business has materialized Mr. Glassford will sell the stock and go to his home in Oswego.

Geese Going North

Warm weather is officially here if the flight of a large number of wild geese can be taken as an indication of the approach of summer. The northward flight of wild geese for years has been taken as an indication that winter has passed and last night about 10 o'clock a large number of geese were heard winging their way northward. There apparently was a considerable number of them if the "honking" of the birds was any indication of number.

Clean-up Week to Begin Next Monday in City

Clean-up Week starts Monday in Kingston, and householders who desire to have city trucks enter upon their premises to remove a truck load or two of debris should call 2114, and make a reservation.

For the past week householders in the city have been busy cleaning up their premises of the winter's accumulation of rubbish.

No rubbish should be piled on the curb but should be placed in containers for collection, according to Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer of the Board of Public Works.

Resigns His Position

John Obermeyer has resigned as commissioner of appraisal and Justice Pierce H. Russell has appointed Nathaniel L. Goldstein of New York city to fill the vacancy as a member of Rondout Riparian Section No. 2 Commission. The commission has power to hear riparian claims arising out of taking of lands for the construction of the New York city water project along the Rondout creek. John E. Egan appeared for the City of New York, seeking to have a substitute commissioner appointed. There was no opposition.

Bell Is Satisfied

Satisfaction with Marine life and training was expressed recently by Pvt. Frank Bell of 694 Broadway, when contacted at Parris Island, S. C., by a Marine Public Relations officer. "Everything is satisfactory on Parris Island," Private Bell said. "The food and clothing are good, and our instructors are very efficient."

Private Bell, son of Mrs. Marselle Bell of Kingston, enlisted in the Marine Corps on February 9 at Albany.

Japanese would seek simply to neutralize Australia's increasingly powerful bases, rather than attempt a full invasion.

At New Delhi, declaring that Britain's plan for post-war Indian dominion status would "keep Moslems toed to the chariot wheels of Hindutism," Mohammed Ali Jinnah indicated today that the autonomy proposal already rejected by the powerful all-India Congress party also was unsatisfactory to his Moslem League.

Jinnah, leader of India's second largest party, expressed deep disappointment that the "entirety and integrity of the Moslem nation was not expressly recognized" in the offer outlined by Sir Stafford Cripps in an effort to bring the Indians wholeheartedly into the war effort.

The All-India Congress working committee, representing the most powerful of the factions to which proposals for increased Indian autonomy have been addressed by Sir Stafford Cripps, met for about two hours today.

Dr. Maulana Abdul Kalam Azad, Congress president, said the meeting considered the situation in Bengal and Assam in view of the warfare nearing from Burma, and discussed what lead the organization should give the country.

He added that Mohandas K. Gandhi, revered national leader, had delayed his departure from the capital for a day to give the committee the benefit of his advice.

Sir Stafford called at noon upon Louis Johnson, personal representative of President Roosevelt in India.

was wounded, and later risked his life in an attempt to save the ship's pay records.

The Langley, converted from a collier to become America's first aircraft carrier and later turned into a tender to serve both sea planes and airplanes, had been claimed sunk by the Japanese at least three times during the first month of the war. During this time the historic vessel, known to bluejackets as the "old covered wagon," had gone undamaged.

Commander Robert P. McConnell, who commanded the Langley, and Lieutenant-Commander Elmer P. Abernethy of the Pecos gave details of the Java battles at San Francisco last night. Lieutenant-Commander John M. Birmingham of the Peary was killed in action.

The story of the convoy attack by Destroyer Division 57 was told by Commander Paul Talbot, who led the division.
